

One of those days where I really felt life

It is raining... the window is a bit open. She sits on the bed reading in some random beauty magazine. The atmosphere is very relaxed. I smile to her and she sends a smile back. We laugh a bit, joking. I go to make a cup of coffee and we drink it together while talking a bit. I look out the window and feel so relaxed hearing the rain falling.

A bit later we go to shop... bringing an umbrella... complaining about the weather but both wearing a smile... we don't have a lot of money, but shopping is always lovely. We are good at shopping together. None of us mind spending lot of time looking around, counting the pennies we have and when we buy something different we both look much forward preparing the dinner.

We walk home again... maybe we drop by another shop, wishing we could buy a better oven, a vacuum cleaning, some new clothes but that has to wait... and we don't really need it. We get by alright - but there is nothing wrong in looking. She decides that she wants to cook for me. It makes her happy; I can see it on her face. She is proud of herself and when she brings me the food she gives me a kiss. She looks at me with these eyes that just make you melt inside.

We talk about what to do in the evening, maybe rent a movie? I always enjoyed walking and just selecting the movie and looking forward watching it together makes me so happy. We get home and I take a shower. A bit later she comes to help me wash my back carefully. She cares a lot about me. She sits herself on the bed and takes care of her nails. She tells me she wants to take care of mine later, but maybe first tomorrow if we are going to watch the movie. I get out of the shower and while I dry myself she makes some popcorn. Uh, we are both so excited, looking so much forward enjoying watching the movie together.

I take some cold wine gums from the refrigerator and we sit on the bed and I put the DVD in my laptop. She puts her head on my shoulder and I caress her a bit and then take her hand. Uh, it is so lovely seeing her eat popcorns, chocolate etc... She loves it so much and it fills me with joy seeing her this way. The movie was good and it is getting a bit late. I like having a bit of time alone and she doesn't really like bringing the DVD back, but no problem, I do it. It is a bit far away, but walking in the night is beautiful and it clears my mind. While I am gone she takes a shower and gets ready to sleep.

I come home and see her lying in bed. She was awaiting me and is very happy that I am finally home. I go to bed and pull myself close to her. I kiss her and tell her that I love her, and I pull my arm around her. We then fall asleep with peace in mind ... like two small birds that still have to leave the nest.