

A lost of faith, a lost of heart

*I love life and I feel like dying Everything just seems too much I feel so bad, and then I feel so good and then I feel bad again Crying, not often but when I do I cry a river I want to forget, erase you from my mind but I also want to keep our memories and I want our life to continue forever I want to move on I move on I feel great, and then I feel so bad and then I feel okay and then I cry a river over the lost of you I erase you, but you won't let me but you don't want me either nor will it ever be the same or will it?
Time, time, I need time
Time is said to heal wounds I thought my love for you was fake but if it was, why does the love reappear after all you have put me through?
Why can't I hate you?
Burry all hope?
Am I really meant to be with you?
If not now, then sometimes in the future?
It seems impossible and soon
soon we will be further away further away from each other and I don't see any chance that we will meet I loved our time, I loved my life I still love my life*

But ...nothing is the same without you